Claimant: Appellant (2)

Iowa Code § 96.5(2)a – Discharge for Misconduct
Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(7) – Excessive Unexcused Absenteeism

STATEMENT OF THE CASE:

The claimant, John E Laux III, filed an appeal from the March 31, 2022 (reference 01) unemployment insurance decision that denied benefits based upon the conclusion he was discharged for excessive unexcused absenteeism. The parties were properly notified of the hearing. A telephone hearing was held on May 16, 2022. The claimant participated. The employer participated through Human Resources Alexa Willard. The employer was represented by Unemployment Insurance Representative Thomas Kuiper. Exhibit A was received into the record.

ISSUE:

Whether the claimant's separation from employment was disqualifying?

FINDINGS OF FACT:

Having reviewed all of the evidence in the record, the administrative law judge finds:

The claimant was employed full-time as a fore person from January 2, 2020, until this employment ended on February 15, 2022, when he was discharged. The claimant's shift was from 7:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. His immediate supervisor General Fore Person Jesse Roberson.

The employer has an attendance policy. The attendance policy informs employees to call in at least two hours prior to the start of their shift to inform their supervisor of an absence. The employer reserves the right to exercise discretion whether absenteeism is excessive enough or not to warrant termination. The claimant acknowledged receipt of this policy on January 2, 2022.

On February 15, 2022, the claimant spoke with Mr. Roberson prior to the start of his shift that day. The claimant said he could not come in because he had a headache and an upset stomach. Mr. Roberson said the claimant did not have any vacation time. The claimant said it must have been a system glitch. Mr. Roberson said he would speak with Union Steward Ryan Watson and get back to the claimant. Mr. Roberson did not specify a time. Later that day, Mr.

Roberson terminated the claimant. He reasoned the claimant did not have sufficient vacation time to cover him for that day.

REASONING AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW:

For the reasons that follow, the administrative law judge concludes the claimant was discharged from employment due to non-disqualifying conduct.

Iowa Code § 96.5(2)a provides:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits:

2. Discharge for misconduct. If the department finds that the individual has been discharged for misconduct in connection with the individual's employment:

a. The individual shall be disqualified for benefits until the individual has worked in and has been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times the individual's weekly benefit amount, provided the individual is otherwise eligible.

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(1)a provides:

Discharge for misconduct.

(1) Definition.

a. "Misconduct" is defined as a deliberate act or omission by a worker which constitutes a material breach of the duties and obligations arising out of such worker's contract of employment. Misconduct as the term is used in the disqualification provision as being limited to conduct evincing such willful or wanton disregard of an employer's interest as is found in deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which the employer has the right to expect of employees, or in carelessness or negligence of such degree of recurrence as to manifest equal culpability, wrongful intent or evil design, or to show an intentional and substantial disregard of the employer's interests or of the employee's duties and obligations to the employer. On the other hand mere inefficiency, unsatisfactory conduct, failure in good performance as the result of inability or incapacity, inadvertencies or ordinary negligence in isolated instances, or good faith errors in judgment or discretion are not to be deemed misconduct within the meaning of the statute.

This definition has been accepted by the Iowa Supreme Court as accurately reflecting the intent of the legislature. Huntoon v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 275 N.W.2d 445, 448 (Iowa 1979).

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32 (7) and (8) provides:

(7) Excessive unexcused absenteeism. Excessive unexcused absenteeism is an intentional disregard of the duty owed by the claimant to the employer and shall be considered misconduct except for illness or other reasonable grounds for which the employee was absent and that were properly reported to the employer.

(8) Past acts of misconduct. While past acts and warnings can be used to determine the magnitude of a current act of misconduct, a discharge for misconduct cannot be based on such past act or acts. The termination of employment must be based on a current act.

Excessive absences are not considered misconduct unless unexcused. Absences due to properly reported illness cannot constitute work-connected misconduct since they are not volitional, even if the employer was fully within its rights to assess points or impose discipline up to or including discharge for the absence under its attendance policy. Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(7); Cosper, supra; Gaborit v. Emp't Appeal Bd., 734 N.W.2d 554 (Iowa Ct. App. 2007). Medical documentation is not essential to a determination that an absence due to illness should be treated as excused. Gaborit, supra. Excessive unexcused absenteeism is an intentional disregard of the duty owed by the claimant to the employer and shall be considered misconduct except for illness or other reasonable grounds for which the employee was absent and that were properly reported to the employer. Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(7) (emphasis added); see Higgins v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 350 N.W.2d 187, 190, n. 1 (Iowa 1984) holding "rule [2]4.32(7)...accurately states the law." The requirements for a finding of misconduct based on absences are therefore twofold. First, the absences must be excessive. Sallis v. Emp't Appeal Bd., 437 N.W.2d 895 (Iowa 1989). The determination of whether unexcused absenteeism is excessive necessarily requires consideration of past acts and warnings. Higgins at 192. Second, the absences must be unexcused. Cosper at 10. The requirement of "unexcused" can be satisfied in two ways. An absence can be unexcused either because it was not for "reasonable grounds," Higgins at 191, or because it was not "properly reported," holding excused absences are those "with appropriate notice." Cosper at 10.

The determination of whether unexcused absenteeism is excessive necessarily requires consideration of past acts and warnings. The term "absenteeism" also encompasses conduct that is more accurately referred to as "tardiness." An absence is an extended tardiness, and an incident of tardiness is a limited absence. Absences related to issues of personal responsibility such as transportation, lack of childcare, and oversleeping are not considered excused. Higgins v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 350 N.W.2d 187 (Iowa 1984). Absences due to illness or injury must be properly reported in order to be excused. Cosper v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 321 N.W.2d 6 (Iowa 1982).

It is the duty of the administrative law judge as the trier of fact in this case, to determine the credibility of witnesses, weigh the evidence and decide the facts in issue. Arndt v. City of LeClaire, 728 N.W.2d 389, 394-395 (Iowa 2007). The administrative law judge may believe all, part or none of any witness's testimony. State v. Holtz, 548 N.W.2d 162, 163 (Iowa App. 1996). In assessing the credibility of witnesses, the administrative law judge should consider the evidence using his or her own observations, common sense and experience. Id. In determining the facts, and deciding what testimony to believe, the fact finder may consider the following factors: whether the testimony is reasonable and consistent with other believable evidence; whether a witness has made inconsistent statements; the witness's appearance, conduct, age, intelligence, memory and knowledge of the facts; and the witness's interest in the trial, their motive, candor, bias and prejudice. Id.

After assessing the credibility of the witnesses who testified during the hearing, considering the applicable factors listed above, and using his own common sense and experience, the administrative law judge finds the claimant's testimony regarding the final incident more credible than the employer's testimony.

The employer's witness, Alexa Willard, had no first-hand knowledge or experience regarding what occurred on February 15, 2022. Ms. Willard rather was relying on records for her testimony regarding the circumstances of that day. Ms. Willard revealed that previous instances of alleged absenteeism did not give circumstances regarding what the claimant was calling in for. The records lacked details even regarding the dates of previous incidents. In contrast, the claimant personally experienced the events firsthand. In that context, the administrative law judge finds the claimant was ill and properly reported this illness before the onset of his shift. Given that finding, the claimant's termination cannot be disqualifying because the final act is not that can be considered as an incident of misconduct. See Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32 (7). Benefits are granted.

DECISION:

The March 31, 2022 (reference 01) unemployment insurance decision is reversed. The claimant was discharged due to a non-disqualifying act. Benefits are granted provided he is otherwise eligible.
