ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE
DECISION

OC: 04/02/23
Claimant: Appellant (2R)

Iowa Code §96.5(2)a-Discharge/Misconduct

STATEMENT OF THE CASE:

On April 22, 2023, the claimant/appellant filed an appeal from the April 20, 2023, (reference 01) unemployment insurance decision that denied benefits based on claimant being discharged on March 23, 2023 for violation of a known company rule. An in person hearing was scheduled to be held at 1000 E. Grand Ave., Des Moines, Iowa, on May 23, 2023. Claimant appeared for the hearing after the time of the hearing due to getting confused on the location of the hearing. The administrative law judge rescheduled the hearing. Claimant and employer both requested for the rescheduled hearing to be heard by telephone. The hearing was rescheduled for a telephone hearing on June 8, 2023. The parties were properly notified about the hearing. Claimant participated. Employer did not call in to participate.

ISSUE:

Was the separation a layoff, discharge for misconduct, or voluntary quit without good cause?

FINDINGS OF FACT:

Having reviewed all of the evidence in the record, the administrative law judge finds: Claimant began working for employer on March 25, 2022. Claimant last worked as a full-time store manager.

Claimant requested to go on Family and Medical Leave (FMLA) due to being pregnant. Claimant's leave began February 28, 2023, and was expected to continue until May 23, 2023. Prior to claimant going on FMLA leave she hired her fiancé to begin working at the store. The fiancé's hiring was also approved by claimant's supervisor Robert Tunney.

On or about March 8, 2023, while claimant was on her FMLA claimant posted a snap chat on social media. An exchange occurred between claimant and the employer's first assistant, Breanna Breckenridge. In the conversation claimant said she was pissed Ms. Breckenridge was fucking with her income for her kids. Ms. Breckenridge reported the conversation to Mr. Tunney.

On or about March 14, 2023, the fiancé completed his first shift and claimant's was notified by Mr. Tunney that the fiancé's hiring was flagged due to claimant sharing the same address. Mr.

Tunney informed claimant that the fiancé could no longer work at the store and needed to move to a different store to continue working for the employer. Mr. Tunney also wanted confirmation that claimant's fiancé was not the father of claimant's new baby in order for the fiancé to continue working at the store. Claimant offered to step down as the store manager in order for her fiancé to continue working at the same store in order to avoid any conflict of interest.

On or about March 15, 2023, Mr. Tunney contacted claimant about the social media exchange between claimant and Ms. Breckenridge. Mr. Tunney expressed concern about claimant's response to Ms. Breckenridge and needed reassurance that claimant would not lash out at employees.

On or about March 23, 2023, Mr. Tunney called claimant and asked her if she was still stepping down. Claimant corrected Mr. Tunney and told him she was willing to step down as the store manager and go into a lower role in order for her fiancé to continue working for the employer. Mr. Tunney informed claimant she was discharged due to using profanity towards a team member.

The employer has a policy that employees are not to use profanity while they are on the clock. Claimant did not have any prior warnings for using profanity. The employer did not appear at the hearing to present any evidence regarding claimant's discharge.

REASONING AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW:

For the reasons that follow, the administrative law judge concludes claimant was discharged from employment for no disqualifying reason.

Iowa Code section 96.5(2)a provides:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits, regardless of the source of the individual's wage credits:

2. Discharge for misconduct. If the department finds that the individual has been discharged for misconduct in connection with the individual's employment:

a. The disqualification shall continue until the individual has worked in and has been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times the individual's weekly benefit amount, provided the individual is otherwise eligible.

Iowa Code section 96.5(2) d provides:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits, regardless of the source of the individual's wage credits:

2. Discharge for misconduct. If the department finds that the individual has been discharged for misconduct in connection with the individual's employment:

d. For the purposes of this subsection, "misconduct" means a deliberate act or omission by an employee that constitutes a material breach of the duties and obligations arising out of the employee's contract of employment. Misconduct is limited to conduct evincing such willful or wanton disregard of an employer's interest as is found in deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which the employer has the right to expect of employees, or in carelessness or negligence of such degree of recurrence as to manifest equal culpability, wrongful intent or even design, or to show an intentional and substantial disregard of the employer's interests or of the employee's duties and obligations to the employer. Misconduct by an individual includes but is not limited to all of the following:

- (1) Material falsification of the individual's employment application.
- (2) Knowing violation of a reasonable and uniformly enforced rule of an employer.
- (3) Intentional damage of an employer's property.
- (4) Consumption of alcohol, illegal or nonprescribed prescription drugs, or an impairing substance in a manner not directed by the manufacturer or a combination of such substances, on the employer's premises in violation of the employer's employment policies.
- (5) Reporting to work under the influence of alcohol, illegal or nonprescribed prescription drugs, or an impairing substance in an off-label manner, or a combination of such substances, on the employer's premises in violation of the employer's employment policies, unless the individual is compelled to work by the employer outside of scheduled or on-call working hours.
- (6) Conduct that substantially and unjustifiably endangers the personal safety of coworkers or the general public.
- (7) Incarceration for an act for which one could reasonably expect to be incarcerated that result in missing work.
- (8) Incarceration as a result of a misdemeanor or felony conviction by a court of competent jurisdiction.
- (9) Excessive unexcused tardiness or absenteeism.
- (10) Falsification of any work-related report, task, or job that could expose the employer or coworkers to legal liability or sanction for violation of health or safety laws.
- (11) Failure to maintain any licenses, registration, or certification that is reasonably required by the employer or by law, or that is a functional requirement to perform the individual's regular job duties, unless the failure is not within the control of the individual.
- (12) Conduct that is libelous or slanderous toward an employer or an employee of the employer if such conduct is not protected under state or federal law.
- (13) Theft of an employer or coworker's funds or property.
- (14) Intentional misrepresentation of time worked or work carried out that results in the individual receiving unearned wages or unearned benefits.

The employer has the burden of proof in establishing disqualifying job misconduct. Cosper v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 321 N.W.2d 6 (Iowa 1982).

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(4) provides:

(4) Report required. The claimant's statement and employer's statement must give detailed facts as to the specific reason for the claimant's discharge. Allegations of misconduct or dishonesty without additional evidence shall not be sufficient to result in disqualification. If the employer is unwilling to furnish available evidence to corroborate the allegation, misconduct cannot be established. In cases where a suspension or disciplinary layoff exists, the claimant is considered as discharged, and the issue of misconduct shall be resolved.

Iowa Admin. Code r.871-24.32(8) provides:

(8) Past acts of misconduct. While past acts and warnings can be used to determine the magnitude of a current act of misconduct, a discharge for misconduct cannot be based on such past act or acts. The termination of employment must be based on a current act.

The issue is not whether the employer made a correct decision in separating claimant, but whether the claimant is entitled to unemployment insurance benefits. Infante v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 364 N.W.2d 262 (Iowa Ct. App. 1984). Misconduct must be "substantial" to warrant a denial of job insurance benefits. Newman v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 351 N.W.2d 806 (Iowa Ct. App. 1984). "Misconduct serious enough to warrant the discharge of an employee is not necessarily serious enough to warrant a denial of benefits." Lee v. Employment Appeal Bd., 616 N.W.2d 661, 665 (Iowa 2000).

In an at-will employment environment an employer may discharge an employee for any number of reasons or no reason at all if it is not contrary to public policy. If the employer fails to meet its burden of proof to establish job related misconduct as the reason for the separation, it incurs potential liability for unemployment insurance benefits related to that separation. A determination as to whether an employee's act is misconduct does not rest solely on the interpretation or application of the employer's policy or rule. A violation is not necessarily disqualifying misconduct even if the employer was fully within its rights to impose discipline up to or including discharge for the incident under its policy.

In this case claimant was informed she was discharged due to using profanity during her social media conversation with Ms. Breckenridge. "The use of profanity or offensive language in a confrontational, disrespectful, or name-calling context, may be recognized as misconduct, even in the case of isolated incidents or situations in which the target of abusive name-calling is not present when the vulgar statements are initially made. The question of whether the use of improper language in the workplace is misconduct is nearly always a fact question. It must be considered with other relevant factors, including the context in which it is said, and the general work environment." Myers v. Emp't Appeal Bd., 462 N.W.2d 734 (Iowa Ct. App. 1990). Vulgar language in front of customers can constitute misconduct, Zeches v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 333 N.W.2d 735, 736 (Iowa Ct. App. 1983), as well as vulgarities accompanied with a refusal to obey supervisors. Warrell v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 356 N.W.2d 587, 589 (Iowa Ct. App. 1984). Likewise, the repetition of vulgarities can elevate a minor peccadillo to an act of willful misconduct. Carpenter v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 401 N.W.2d 242, 245-46 (Iowa Ct. App. 1986).

Every employer is entitled to expect civility and decency from its employees, and an employee's "use of profanity or offensive language in a confrontational, disrespectful, or name-calling context may be recognized as misconduct." Henecke v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 533 N.W.2d 573, 576 (Iowa App. 1995) (internal citation omitted). However, the use of profanity or offensive language is not automatically disqualifying for unemployment insurance benefits purposes. The "question of whether the use of improper language in the workplace is misconduct is nearly always a fact question... [and] must be considered with other relevant factors..." Myers v. Employment Appeal Board, 462 N.W.2d 734, 738 (Iowa App. 1990). A recent Employment Appeal Board decision set forth six aggravating factors to be considered when examining an employee's use of improper language: "(1) cursing in front of customers, vendors, or other third parties; (2) undermining a supervisor's authority; (3) threats of violence; (4) threats of future misbehavior or insubordination; (5) repeated incidents of vulgarity; and (6) discriminatory context." Emp. App. Bd. Hrg. No. 16B-UI-08787, at *3 (Emp. App. Bd. pub. Oct. 21, 2016) (citing cases). The Employment Appeal Board also suggests that the general work environment is a relevant consideration in analyzing profanity. Id.

In this case claimant was on a leave of absence and a conversation occurred with her co-worker through social media where claimant used profanity. The employer has not established that this is conduct is job-related misconduct since it occurred outside of the workplace. Additionally, the employer has not established that claimant meets any of the six aggravating factors that would disqualify her from benefits. As a result, no intentional job-related misconduct has been established, as is the employer's burden of proof. Cosper v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 321 N.W.2d 6 (Iowa 1982). Accordingly, no disqualification pursuant to Iowa Code § 96.5(2)a is imposed.

DECISION:

The April 20, 2023, (reference 01) unemployment insurance decision is REVERSED. Claimant was discharged from employment for no disqualifying reason. Benefits are allowed, provided she is otherwise eligible. The benefits shall not be released until the issue in the remand has been determined.

REMAND:

Claimant was on FMLA leave due to having a child when she was discharged. The issue of whether claimant is able and available for work effective April 2, 2023, has not been determined. The issue of whether claimant is able and available for work is remanded to Iowa Workforce Development's Benefits Bureau for an investigation and determination.
