Section 96.5-2-a - Discharge

STATEMENT OF THE CASE:

The employer appealed an unemployment insurance decision dated October 20, 2005, reference 01, that concluded the claimant's discharge was not for work-connected misconduct. A telephone hearing was held on November 10, 2005. The parties were properly notified about the hearing. The claimant participated in the hearing. Vince Barrett participated in the hearing on behalf of the employer.

FINDINGS OF FACT:

The claimant worked full time as night manager/cashier for the employer from March 4, 2004, to September 25, 2005. The claimant was informed and understood that under the employer's work rules and state law, alcohol could not be sold after 2:00 a.m.

On September 25, 2005, a cashier had refused to sell alcohol to a customer because she mistakenly believed that it was after 2:00 a.m. When the customer complained that it was not 2:00 a.m., the claimant checked the time on his cellular phone, which displayed that it was 1:59 a.m. The claimant sold beer to the customer. The cashier reported to management that the claimant had sold beer to a customer after 2:00 a.m.

On September 25, 2005, the employer discharged that the claimant for violating the work rule prohibiting selling alcohol after 2:00 a.m.

REASONING AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW:

The issue in this case is whether the claimant was discharged for work-connected misconduct as defined by the unemployment insurance law.

Iowa Code section 96.5-2-a provides:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits:

2. Discharge for misconduct. If the department finds that the individual has been discharged for misconduct in connection with the individual's employment:

a. The individual shall be disqualified for benefits until the individual has worked in and has been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times the individual's weekly benefit amount, provided the individual is otherwise eligible.

871 IAC 24.32(1)a provides:

Discharge for misconduct.

(1) Definition.

a. "Misconduct" is defined as a deliberate act or omission by a worker which constitutes a material breach of the duties and obligations arising out of such worker's contract of employment. Misconduct as the term is used in the disqualification provision as being limited to conduct evincing such willful or wanton disregard of an employer's interest as is found in deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which the employer has the right to expect of employees, or in carelessness or negligence of such degree of recurrence as to manifest equal culpability, wrongful intent or evil design, or to show an intentional and substantial disregard of the employer's interests or of the employee's duties and obligations to the employer. On the other hand mere inefficiency, unsatisfactory conduct, failure in good performance as the result of inability or incapacity, inadvertencies or ordinary negligence in isolated instances, or good faith errors in judgment or discretion are not to be deemed misconduct within the meaning of the statute.

This definition has been accepted by the Iowa Supreme Court as accurately reflecting the intent of the legislature. Huntoon v. Iowa Department of Job Service, 275 N.W.2d 445, 448 (Iowa 1979).

The employer has the burden to prove the claimant was discharged for work-connected misconduct as defined by the unemployment insurance law. Cosper v. Iowa Department of Job Service, 321 N.W.2d 6 (Iowa 1982). The propriety of a discharge is not at issue in an unemployment insurance case. An employer may be justified in discharging an employee, but the employee's conduct may not amount to misconduct precluding the payment of unemployment compensation. The law limits disqualifying misconduct to substantial and willful wrongdoing or repeated carelessness or negligence that equals willful misconduct in culpability. Lee v. Employment Appeal Board, 616 N.W.2d 661, 665 (Iowa 2000).

The findings of fact show how I resolved the disputed factual issues in this case by carefully assessing of the credibility of the witnesses and reliability of the evidence and by applying the proper standard and burden of proof. The law prohibits selling alcohol after 2:00 a.m. This means true time not store time. The claimant determined the time on his cellular phone was more accurate than the clock in the store. No other person who was in the store that night testified at the hearing. Therefore, the preponderance of the evidence establishes that it was not after 2:00 p.m. when the claimant sold the beer to the customer.

DECISION:

The unemployment insurance decision dated October 20, 2005, reference 01, is affirmed. The claimant is qualified to receive unemployment insurance benefits, if he is otherwise eligible.
