APPEAL 23A-UI-06673-PT-T

ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE DECISION

OC: 05/28/23
Claimant: Appellant (2)

Iowa Code § 96.5(2)a – Discharge

STATEMENT OF THE CASE:

Claimant filed an appeal from a decision of a representative dated June 21, 2023, (reference 01) that held claimant ineligible for unemployment insurance benefits after a separation from employment. After due notice, a hearing was held on July 24, 2023. Claimant participated personally. Employer participated through Front-end Coach Lindy Grimm and was represented by Equifax Representative Franky Patterson. The administrative law judge took official notice of the administrative record.

ISSUE:

Whether the claimant was discharged for disqualifying, job-related misconduct?

FINDINGS OF FACT:

The administrative law judge, having heard the testimony and considered all of the evidence in the record, finds: Claimant last worked for the employer on May 25, 2023. The employer discharged claimant on May 25, 2023, for making a profane comment and gesture in violation of the employer's workplace harassment policy.

Claimant was employed as a full-time front-end team associate from March 2, 2018, until her employment with Walmart Inc. ended on May 25, 2023. As a front-end team associate, claimant was responsible for operating cash registers, overseeing the self-checkout, bagging, and assisting with cleaning the store. The employer has a written employee manual that includes a workplace harassment policy that requires employees to behave professionally and prohibits employees from making offensive gestures. Claimant received copies of, and was familiar with, the employer's work rules.

On May 24, 2023, shortly before claimant's lunchbreak, claimant was stationed at a cash register when a lead worker came over and informed claimant that she may be assigned to the self-checkout for the afternoon. Claimant did not like being assigned to the self-checkout, so she muttered a comment to herself about being "screwed over." The team-lead asked claimant what she had said and, as claimant began to answer, the team-lead interrupted claimant and explained how the assignment rotation worked.

When the team-lead finished explaining the assignment rotation, claimant responded, "Oh well, I guess I'll take it up the ass like I always do." When claimant made this remark, she raised her index finger in one hand and gestured it towards a circle she was making with her other hand. Claimant then walked away and went on her lunch break. The next day, claimant's supervisor called claimant into a meeting and informed claimant that her employment was being terminated effective immediately for making a profane comment and an offensive gesture in violation of the employer's workplace harassment policy. Prior to her termination, claimant had never received any workplace discipline.

REASONING AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW:

For the reasons that follow, the administrative law judge concludes the claimant was discharged from employment for no disqualifying reason. Benefits are allowed.

Iowa Code section 96.5(2)a provides:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits, regardless of the source of the individual's wage credits:

2. Discharge for misconduct. If the department finds that the individual has been discharged for misconduct in connection with the individual's employment:

a. The disqualification shall continue until the individual has worked in and has been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times the individual's weekly benefit amount, provided the individual is otherwise eligible.

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(1)a provides:

Discharge for misconduct.

(1) Definition.

a. "Misconduct" is defined as a deliberate act or omission by a worker which constitutes a material breach of the duties and obligations arising out of such worker's contract of employment. Misconduct as the term is used in the disqualification provision as being limited to conduct evincing such willful or wanton disregard of an employer's interest as is found in deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which the employer has the right to expect of employees, or in carelessness or negligence of such degree of recurrence as to manifest equal culpability, wrongful intent or evil design, or to show an intentional and substantial disregard of the employer's interests or of the employee's duties and obligations to the employer. On the other hand mere inefficiency, unsatisfactory conduct, failure in good performance as the result of inability or incapacity, inadvertencies or ordinary negligence in isolated instances, or good faith errors in judgment or discretion are not to be deemed misconduct within the meaning of the statute.

This definition has been accepted by the Iowa Supreme Court as accurately reflecting the intent of the legislature. Huntoon v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 275 N.W.2d 445, 448 (Iowa 1979).

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(4) provides:

(4) Report required. The claimant's statement and employer's statement must give detailed facts as to the specific reason for the claimant's discharge. Allegations of misconduct or dishonesty without additional evidence shall not be sufficient to result in disqualification. If the employer is unwilling to furnish available evidence to corroborate the allegation, misconduct cannot be established. In cases where a suspension or disciplinary layoff exists, the claimant is considered as discharged, and the issue of misconduct shall be resolved.

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(8) provides:

(8) Past acts of misconduct. While past acts and warnings can be used to determine the magnitude of a current act of misconduct, a discharge for misconduct cannot be based on such past act or acts. The termination of employment must be based on a current act.

The employer has the burden of proof in establishing disqualifying job-related misconduct. Cosper v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 321 N.W.2d 6 (Iowa 1982). The issue is not whether the employer made a correct decision in separating claimant, but whether the claimant is entitled to unemployment insurance benefits. Infante v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 364 N.W.2d 262 (Iowa Ct. App. 1984). What constitutes misconduct justifying termination of an employee and what misconduct warrants denial of unemployment insurance benefits are two separate decisions. Pierce v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 425 N.W.2d 679 (Iowa Ct. App. 1988). Misconduct serious enough to warrant discharge is not necessarily serious enough to warrant a denial of job insurance benefits. Such misconduct must be "substantial." Newman v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 351 N.W.2d 806 (Iowa Ct. App. 1984).

The gravity of the incident, number of policy violations and prior warnings are factors considered when analyzing misconduct. The lack of a current warning may detract from a finding of an intentional policy violation. Disqualification for a single misconduct incident must be a deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which employer has a right to expect. Diggs v. Emp't Appeal Bd., 478 N.W.2d 432 (Iowa Ct. App. 1991).

"The use of profanity or offensive language in a confrontational, disrespectful, or name-calling context, may be recognized as misconduct, even in the case of isolated incidents or situations in which the target of abusive name-calling is not present when the vulgar statements are initially made. The question of whether the use of improper language in the workplace is misconduct is nearly always a fact question. It must be considered with other relevant factors, including the context in which it is said, and the general work environment." Myers v. Emp't Appeal Bd., 462 N.W.2d 734 (Iowa Ct. App. 1990). Vulgar language in front of customers can constitute misconduct, Zeches v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 333 N.W.2d 735, 736 (Iowa Ct. App. 1983), as well as vulgarities accompanied with a refusal to obey supervisors. Warrell v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 356 N.W.2d 587, 589 (Iowa Ct. App. 1984).

It is the duty of the administrative law judge as the trier of fact in this case, to determine the credibility of witnesses, weigh the evidence and decide the facts in issue. Arndt v. City of LeClaire, 728 N.W.2d 389, 394-395 (Iowa 2007). The administrative law judge may believe all, part or none of any witness's testimony. State v. Holtz, 548 N.W.2d 162, 163 (Iowa App. 1996). In assessing the credibility of witnesses, the administrative law judge should consider the evidence using his or her own observations, common sense and experience. Id. In determining the facts, and deciding what testimony to believe, the fact finder may consider the following factors: whether the testimony is reasonable and consistent with other believable evidence; whether a witness has made inconsistent statements; the witness's appearance, conduct, age, intelligence, memory and knowledge of the facts; and the witness's interest in the trial, their motive, candor, bias and prejudice. Id.

The findings of fact show how I have resolved the disputed factual issues in this case. I assessed the credibility of the witnesses who testified during the hearing, considering the applicable factors listed above, and using my own common sense and experience. I find the claimant's version of events to be more credible than the employer's version of events, as claimant was the only witness who testified with direct, first-hand knowledge of what was said during claimant's interaction with the lead-worker.

In this case, while claimant acknowledges she made an inappropriate gesture and remark, claimant made the remark out of frustration, she did not direct her comment at the lead-worker in a confrontational manner, and claimant had never previously been disciplined for similar misconduct. Under these circumstances, the administrative law judge concludes that claimant's conduct in this single instance does not evince such willful or wanton disregard of the employer's interests as is found in deliberate violations or disregard of standards of behavior that the employer has the right to expect of employees. The employer has not met its burden of proving disqualifying, job-related misconduct. As such, benefits are allowed, provided the claimant is otherwise eligible.

DECISION:

The June 21, 2023, (reference 01) unemployment insurance decision is reversed. The claimant was discharged from employment for no disqualifying reason. Benefits are allowed provided the claimant is otherwise eligible.
