(Administrative Law Judge)

(Decision Dated & Mailed)

Section 96.5-2-a – Discharge
Section 96.3-7 – Overpayment

STATEMENT OF THE CASE:

The employer, Perkins, filed an appeal from a decision dated January 20, 2004, reference 01. The decision allowed benefits to the claimant, Everett Thiles. After due notice was issued a hearing was held by telephone conference call on February 12, 2004. The claimant did not provide a telephone number where he could be contacted and did not participate. The employer participated by General Manager Greg Krueger and Food Production Manager Nathan Flanker.

FINDINGS OF FACT:

Having heard the testimony of the witnesses and having examined all of the evidence in the record, the administrative law judge finds: Everett Thiles was a full-time cook at Perkins. He was given a verbal warning by General Manager Greg Krueger on November 28, 2003, for poor work performance and bad attitude. On December 13, 2003, Food Production Manager Nathan Flanker gave the claimant another verbal warning regarding complaints of sexual harassment and reviewed with him the employer's "zero tolerance" policy.

The evening of December 13, 2003, the claimant was in the kitchen making "vulgar" and "rude" comments. The employer was not very specific as to what was said but indicated the claimant was using words such as "fuck" and "ass." The incident was reported to Mr. Krueger the next day by an employee, Sarah Lawrence. The general manager discussed the situation with Mr. Flanker and the decision was made to discharge the claimant. He was notified by phone by Mr. Krueger.

Everett Thiles has received unemployment benefits since filing a claim with an effective date of December 21, 2003.

REASONING AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW:

The issue is whether the claimant is disqualified. The judge concludes he is.

Iowa Code Section 96.5-2-a provides:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits:

2. Discharge for misconduct. If the department finds that the individual has been discharged for misconduct in connection with the individual's employment:

a. The individual shall be disqualified for benefits until the individual has worked in and has been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times the individual's weekly benefit amount, provided the individual is otherwise eligible.

871 IAC 24.32(1)a provides:

Discharge for misconduct.

(1) Definition.

a. "Misconduct" is defined as a deliberate act or omission by a worker which constitutes a material breach of the duties and obligations arising out of such worker's contract of employment. Misconduct as the term is used in the disqualification provision as being limited to conduct evincing such willful or wanton disregard of an employer's interest as is found in deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which the employer has the right to expect of employees, or in carelessness or negligence of such degree of recurrence as to manifest equal culpability, wrongful intent or evil design, or to show an intentional and substantial disregard of the employer's interests or of the employee's duties and obligations to the employer. On the other hand mere inefficiency, unsatisfactory conduct, failure in good performance as the result of inability or incapacity, inadvertencies or ordinary negligence in isolated instances, or good faith errors in judgment or discretion are not to be deemed misconduct within the meaning of the statute.

This definition has been accepted by the Iowa Supreme Court as accurately reflecting the intent of the legislature. Huntoon v. Iowa Department of Job Service, 275 N.W.2d 445, 448 (Iowa 1979).

The claimant had been advised his job was in jeopardy as a result of his poor attitude and work performance, and had also been advised of the employer's zero tolerance policy regarding inappropriate conduct. In spite of the warnings the claimant was using vulgar and unacceptable language in the kitchen later that same day. This is a disregard of reasonable instructions given by the employer, as well as a violation of the company policy by engaging in conduct which made other employees uncomfortable. This is conduct not in the best interests of the employer and the claimant is disqualified.

Iowa Code Section 96.3-7 provides:

7. Recovery of overpayment of benefits. If an individual receives benefits for which the individual is subsequently determined to be ineligible, even though the individual acts in good faith and is not otherwise at fault, the benefits shall be recovered. The department in its discretion may recover the overpayment of benefits either by having a sum equal to the overpayment deducted from any future benefits payable to the individual or by having the individual pay to the department a sum equal to the overpayment.

If the department determines that an overpayment has been made, the charge for the overpayment against the employer's account shall be removed and the account shall be credited with an amount equal to the overpayment from the unemployment compensation trust fund and this credit shall include both contributory and reimbursable employers, notwithstanding section 96.8, subsection 5.

The claimant has received unemployment benefits to which he is not entitled. These must be recovered in accordance with the provisions of Iowa law.

DECISION:

The representative's decision of January 20, 2004, reference 01, is reversed. Everett Thiles is disqualified and benefits are withheld until he has earned ten times his weekly benefit amount provided he is otherwise eligible. He is overpaid in the amount of $705.00.
